PULPIT ANATHEMAS IN CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Some of the Flagrant Abuses of Justice Pointed Out with Exactness by the Rev. Thomas Dixon.

JERSEY CHURCHES UP IN ARMS.

Br. Carles Martyn, in Behalf of Newark's Ministers. Throws down the Gauntlet to the Venders of "Liquid Damnation."

Association Hall was packed yesterday morning in spite of the slush under foot and the dripping

"One So-called Courts of Justice," was the somewhat sarcastic title of the prelude to the sermon of the Rev. Thomas Dixon.

"There is a lingering tradition," said Mr. Dixon, that courts of law are places where citizens who have been wronged or denied rights may obtain justice. People used to believe that the goddess who presides over this famous shrine were a blindtold and held the scales in fair balance, showing favor to neither rich nor poor.

"All this is fast becoming a memory. The people are losing confidence in our courts. To go into court is a dangerous proceeding for the ordinary citizen to-day. The people are growing to believe that the goddess who presides at the seat of justice has slipped the blindfold, cut a pocket in her gown and winks confidentially to discreet clients sometimes. There is also a growing notion that the weights used in the manipulation of these scales are loaded and the secrets known only to the manipulators. "A ROARING FARCE."

"Among the masses of the people there is a growing contempt for law, courts, judges and juries that means a revolution must come or our civilization will pay for fatal consequences. To an ordinary man nowadays to go into court means to go into bankruptey. Certainly the man who enters a suit to-day in our courts cannot even predict with assurance the peasible outcome. God only knows what or when the end of his suit will be.

"The administration of our criminal law and the conduct of our criminal courts is fast becoming a "Law is openly violated by a certain class of men who make politics a business. The policeman walks leisurely by the open saloon on Sunday, sees the crowd going and coming, but it does not disturb him. He twirls his billy and walks on, or else stops inside, gets a drink free, shakes hands with the boys and continues his round until he finds a hog in the ditch. Then he assumes the dignity and majesty of law, whacks the poor fellow over the head and 'runs him in.' We must not be too severe on this officer. The truth is, when he is conscientions and does his duty the 'Judge' will often undo all his work. This is almost sure to be the case when the offender has a 'pull,' or is the friend of some greater scoundrel who has a 'pull.'

"It was the full knowledge of these facts, of the weakness and pusillanimous character of our lower courts generally, that gave Flack, our High Sheriff, the daring impudence to accessfully use the courts themselves as the instruments of a dastardly crime.

the courts themselves as the instruments of a dastardly orline.

"On November 25, 1890, the New York Herald exposed in a column and a half the outrageous fact that the officers of the law courts and prosecutors had together conspired to shield a villain, who had committed a most infamous crime, because he was rich. He pleaded guilty to the charge of abducting a little girl of thirteen. He entered this plea under an assumed name, 'Mr. John Stevens, of Newark.' This subterfuge was winked at by the honorable 'Court and 'Mr. John Stevens, of Newark,' was fined $1,000. Instead of wearing striped clothes this acoundred now lives in his magnificent home in New York, surrounded by his accial clique, enjoying his wealth and eminent respectability.

clique, enjoying his wealth and eminent respectability.

"We are told that even Mr. Gerry, as president or the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Chidren, agreed to this miserable he and farce committed in the name of law, justice and the sovereign people of New York. Mr. Gerry says he is opposed to such a policy, but did it to shield this man's family from disgrace.

"It might be pertinent to suggest just here to Mr. Gerry and his society that the Christian officens of this Commonwealth do not regard his society as chartered to protect children against the cruelties of the poor, but, in the name of humanity, to protect them from the brute, whether he wear purple and fine linen or the tattered rags of the tramp.

"If the record of that trial which the recording angel took were unfodded now what a tale it would tell! How many crisp thousand dollar bills flutted."

angel took were unfoided now what a tale it would tell! How many crisp thousand dollar bills fluttered around the tomples of justice in those days only the angels and 'Mr. John Stevens, of Newark,' probably know.

HIS HONOR THE SALOON KEEPER.

"The impression is growing into an overwhelming conviction in the minds of the common people that many officers of the law are more and nore coming to work in harmony with the criminal classes. People believe that they levy taxes on the saloons gambling hells, dives, brothels and even the picture of the basis of adjustment. They are growing to believe that when eases do got into court that the only crime there really recognized is that of poverty. Whether all this be true or not I do not say, but people—the masses of the people—are coming to profoundly believe it. When we see clowns, political hacks and criminal saloon keepers lifted into the judge's seat our confidence is not strentthened in the majesty of law or the reality of justice.

SHAME OF THE LAW'S DELAYS.

"The law's delay is reaching such proportions that the very ends of the existence or a court of justice are being nulified. The federal courts still insanely cling to a system of procedure in their equity cases that smells of the dust and rubbish of the days have.

its cases that smells of the dust and rubbish of the dark ages.

"Samuel J. Tilden died in August, 1886, and left his millions to the people of New York to found a great library to be a source of inspiration and power not only to this generation, but to hundreds of generations yet unborn. It seems that this generation will never see that library, and whether the next one will ever see it is a point that only Omniscience ean fathom.

"Everybody with a thimbieful of sense knew that Samuel J. Tilden's will was plain. No man doubts his intentions. If he could not write a will that would stand the test of our legal jugglery it is madness for an ordinary man to hope for such a thing.

"Even that arch-conspirator and criminal, James A. Flack, has been able to find a legal technicality on which he hopes to hang justice and cheat the cell. "The cry of the old farmer in his Alliance against the lawyer and the judge means something after all. He has been humbugged so much he knows something is the matter. That something must be remedied or sad results must be the consequence." NEVER TOO LATE TO REPENT.

RIV. MR. MINGINS EXPOUNDS THE PARABLE OF THE LABORERS IN THE VINLYARD.

At the Union Tabernacle, No. 139 West Thirtyfifth street, the Rev. George J. Mingins took for the text of his morning sermon the parable of the laborers in the vineyard.

The whole scope of the parable, he said, went to

The whole scope of the parable, he said, went to show that God in the exercise of His gracious sovereignty might dispose of his rewards to those who were late in antoring his vineyard and who see period of labor was therefore short. But they had to be true laborers, nevertheless; their repentance had to be sincere, their conversion genuine, their dealer to serve God deep and earnest. It was impossible to hide anything from the all seeing eye of God. He searched hearts. No pretence could decoive Him. Many persons who appeared to repent were like sailors who, when a storm arose, threw the ship's cargo overboard and the n when there came a calm were sorry that they did it and wished their ground back again. That given to those who began laboring late as well as to those who entered the vineyard early, afforded evidence of God's abounding love and mercy."

NEWARKS CHURCH MILITANT. HOT SHOT POURED FROM THE PULPIT INTO THE BANKS OF LIQUOR DEALERS.

The Rev. Dr. Carlos Martyn, chairman of the Undenominational Clerical Committee appointed by the ministers of Newark to protest against the pending legislation at Trenton in the interest of the liquor dealers, treated the subject in his morning sermon yesterday in the First Reformed morning sermon yesterday in the First Reformed Church, Newark, N. J., before a congregation that filled the house.

Taking his text from Exodus, xx., 8—'Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy"—he said:—

"The liquor dealers of New Jersey propose to abolish the Decalegue. As they make a business of peddling what an old poet calls 'liquid damnation.' they naturally fret under the wholesome restraints of divine law. 'Tis not surprising that men who brew hell and put it on tap in their saloons should hate Heaven. The only new fact in the situation is the openness of the attack now being made by the allied powers of evil upon law and order. Formerly they oringed and begged leave to be. Now they feel strong enough and are swaggering and arrogant enough to throw off disguise and demand that perdition be legalized by statute.

"The question is just this:—Shall we consent to the change in our Sunday laws which the liquor dealers propose to make?

"No. We protest."

"The fourth commandment forbids it. Listen:—Themember the Sabbath day to keep it ors are assailing an American institution. Shall we surrender it or permit its essential character to be siltered?

STAND BY THE AMERICAN SUNDAY.

"It is urged in reply that the Sunday is already largely secularized: that Sunday travel, Sunday excursions. Sunday concerts abound. Well, two wrongs do not make a right any more than two vices and one vituo make a saint.

The real purpose of the liquor dealers in this unholy crusade is to make money—to coin it savandays in the week instead of six days as now. The avowed purpose is to Coney Islandize the Sunday. It is a significant fact that these attempts are never made by the working classes. They are shrewd and intelligent enough to understand that the existence of the Sunday as aday of rest depends upon the continued recognition of its sanctity. Destroy this, and the Sunday will soon be lost in the huddle of the secular and working days. First pleasure will obscure it, then greed will swallow it up and put an end even to pleasure. Such is the unvarying history of Sunday desceration.

"The ministers of this State are not politicians—not enough so. But we now serve deliberate notice on the liquor dealers that the way to bring the Church into politics is to bring politics into the Church into politics is to bring politics into the Church. If that Sunday law is repealed let it be distinctly undershood that the elergy will start an agitation that will make the present status of the saloons seem as life in contrast with death.

"We advise our friends of St. Devil's Chapel on Damation alley to let well enough alone."

JOHN STREET'S UNIQUE SERIES. DR. BOWDISH. PASTOR OF THE CHURCH, TAKES

HIS TURN IN THE PULPIT. Old John Street, the pioneer Methodist Church in America, has been lately once again brought into national prominence by the series of interdenominational services held daily there throughout this month. This is the third series of January services of this kind. Representative ministers of different denominations preach there at half-past three every afternoon to audiences composed largely of downtown business men. The list of preachers for this week is Nev. Dr. R. R. Meredith, itev. Dr. Wesley R. Davis, Rev. Dr. A. B. Kendig, Rev. Dr. S. R. Virgin, Hev. Dr. Charlos F. Deems and Rev. Dr. Watson L. Phillips. The other participants in this service, have been Bowdish, this plan of interdenominational evangelistic services, and under whose ministrations John Street Church has attained to greater prosperity than it had known for twenty years, has conducted the regular Sunday services during the present month.

He preached yesterday from the text, I Cor., il. 1:—'Be ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ."

Christ."
"Faul," he said, "was great in mind and great in heart. He did not fear to handle all themes connected with human thought and human action. Yet when he came to preach the gospel of glad tidings, he seemed overpowered with the grandour of its truths and the superabundance of its wealth. His eyes were opened to the light, and he did not fail to lot the Light shine immediately in the darkness of Damaeuts:—"Siraidsway he in the darkness of Damasous: - Straigtway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that He is the Son of God."

Son of God."

"We can allow him to state thus boldly this truth and submit to the demand that we follow him as he followed the Christ. Christ's pattern is a copy without a blot. Fut Him before your eye, Study His life and imitate his example. In this practical way may Christianity be auplied to the details of every day and ordinary life."

DR. DE COSTA DID NOT PREACH. AT THE LAST MOMENT HE DECIDES NOT TO IN-TERFE : E IN ST. STEPHEN'S TROUBLES.

The Rev. Dr. B. F. De Costa, D. D., of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. John the Evangelist, was advertised in Saturday's papers to speak yesterday morning at St. Stephen's Episcopal yesterday morning at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in West Forty-sixth street on the subject, "Strengthening vs. the Extinguishing of Parishes."

He did not appear, and Mr. C. E. Fleming, a church warden, stated that at the last moment he had received word from Dr. De Costa asking to be excused from preaching.

After the services Mr. Fleming said:—"Upon a written invitation from Mr. Hall Dr. De Costa agreed to come here to-day and preach a sermon, referring, of course, to the controversy over the consolidation of this church with the Church of the Holy Trinity in Harlem. Dr. De Costa assured me on Saturday that he would come, but some one must have seen him after I did.

'This letter was written by Dr. Hart to Mr. Hall when the former heard that Dr. De Costa had agreed to preach on the subject mentioned:—

Dear Mr. Hatt.—It is announced in this morning's papers that the Rev. Dr. De tosta is to preach to morning in St. Staphan's Church on the "Strengthening's the Extinguishing of Parishes." Now, consolidation is not axinction, and such an advertisement or such a sermen is simply a breach of hospitality and of clerical courtesy. Yours, very truly,

"I suppose," continued Mr. Fleming, "that Dr. Hart, has seen Dr. De Costa and expressed views to him similar to those contained in his letter."

Mr. Fleming concluded by saying:—"We do not propose to pay the debts of a bankrupt corporation."

I called on Dr. De Costa in reference to the matter, but he absolutely refused to be seen or to make any statement on the subject. Mr. Hart was not at home.

"Why do I call Simon a showman." said Mr. Tyler. "Because he deserves the appellation even more than the magicians of our own day, such as living man." John Calvin, even in his dying illness, would not refrain from work. When his friends begged him to cease his labors he replied:—"What, shall my Lord come and find me ide?"

"Christ's yoke was infinitely less burdensome than that imposed by folly and sin. The roward of faithful service exceeded all that the most sanguine could anticipate. And the fact that it was criticised because he asked Peter to pray for him that none of these things might come upon him.' It is asid that he wanted forgiveness because he was afraid.

"Well, I ask you, how many of us have begun the Christian life because we were afraid we would drop into hell? I contess that for myself there was a good deal of hell in my conversion. We must not therefore condemn Simon's conversion on this account.

"Peter said to him, "thy heart is not right;" but is your's right, fortunate man, fortunate woman?
However bad a man may have been his conversion is not impossible. The power of Jesus Christ can make him an honorable, upright man."

SINNERS AT THE ACADEMY. OVER ONE THOUSAND PROPLE ROUSED BY DR.

TALMAGE'S SERMONS. The series of sermons which the Rev. Dr. T. De Witt Talmage is preaching at the Academy of Music on Sunday evenings is evidently producing remarkable results in the way of arousing a serious interest in religious matters in the minds of many persons who have not been in the habit of giving much thought to spiritual things. Multitudes of people who are not regular church goers attend these services. The great building is aiways crowded, and whatever the weather may be, many are turned away unable to get in.

On the last four Sundays the Doctor's sermons have been particularly earnest in their exhortations to sinners to come to repentance, and after every service hundreds of persons have risen to ask for the prayers of the congregation and have this forecloses controversy.

2. We stand on the law as it is. We are conservative. The radicals and revolutionists are the rummies. The law now protects worship. We want it to remain protected. If the salcons are opened on Sunday there will be more drunkenness and disorder on Sunday there will be more drunkenness and disorder on Sunday afternoon and evening than at any other time. Why? Because then there is more leisure for guzzling and rowdyism—and Saturday is pay day!

2. We oppose this demand of liquor dealers, too, in the name of fair play. Why should the salcons be accorded a privilege denied to honest business? Why should liquor be sold on a day when groceries, clothing, dry goods and shoes are shelved by law benind closed doors? Shall we have in New Jersey an aristocracy of bear?

4. In attacking the Sunday law the liquor dealers are assalling and American institution. Shall we surrender it or permit its essental character to be altered?

In drawing a lesson from the story Dr. Talmage said:—

"When God writes anything on the wall a man had better read it as it is. Daniel did not misinterpret or modify the handwriting on the wall. It is all foolishness to expect a minister of the Gespel to preach always things that the people like or the people choose.

"Young men, what shall I preach to you to night? Shall I tell you of the dignity of human nature? Shall I tell you of the wonders that our race has accomplished? "Oh, no." you say; "tell me the message that came from God." I will.

"If there is any handwriting on the wall it is this losson, 'Accept of Christ and be saved!' I might talk of a great many other things, but that is the message, and so I declare it.

"Jasus never flattered those to whom He preached. He said to those who did wrong and who were offensive in his sight, 'Ye generation of vipers! ye whited sepulchres! how can ye escape the damnation of hell!

"Paul the Aposte preached before a man who was not resay to hear him preach. He preached of righteousness to a man who was unrighteous; of temperance to a man who was the victim of bad appetites; of the judgment to come to a man who was unfit for it.

ST. AGNES' DAY CELEBRATED.

SOLEMNIZED IN THE TI-ULAR CHURCH ON SCALE OF BARE MAGNIFICENCE.

St. Agnes' Day occurred last Wednesday, but its celebration was, in accordance with rubrical permission, transferred to yesterday. In the titular church on East Forty-third street the feast was solemnized on a scale of magnificence rarely seen. Pontifical mass was offered by the Right Rev. Aifred A. Curtis, D. D., Bishop of Wilmington, Del., with the Rev. Cherles H. Colton, rector of St. Stephen's Church, as assistant priest; the Rev. Henry Pratt, pastor of St. Columba's Church, as deacon; the Rev. Joseph F. Sheahan sub-deacon and the Rev. Henry T. Newsy master of ceremonies.

The liev. Henry D. Brann, D. D., rector, made the usual parish announcements.

the Catholic University and rector of St. Matthew's Church, Washington, D. C., celivered the panegyric of the saint.

As neutal in this church the music was of a high order, Professor Paola Giorza, the organist, having arranged an admirable programme.

At the "Sanctus" the scene was one of grandeur. The altars were brilliantly lighted and decorated with cut flowers and feathery palms.

In the evening at half-past seven solemn vespers was sung by the rector, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Degnan, as descen, and the Rev. Father Newey, as sub-dencon. The sermon was preached by the Rev. James J. Dougherty, of the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin on Lafayette place, and was an eloquent tribute to the saint. At this service there was another large congregation.

After the benedletion of the blessed sacrament last night, the relics of St. Agnes were exposed and venorated.

A pleasing feature of the festival was the sight of little girls drossed in white, with red sashes, taking up the collections.

Among those in the sactuary was the Rev. Father Paul O'Sullivan, of New Zealand.

A black marble slab has been placed at the right of the sanctuary, as a memorial of the late pasior, the Rev. Henry Cummings MacDowall. It was shown yesterday for the first time.

OF THE BOND SCHEMES

Promoters, Fearful of Being Driven from Their Industry, Ask Vindication, but Avoid Real Issues.

SIMPLE AS THE RULE OF THREE.

Letters from the People Seeking the Herald's Aid to Give Warning Against Glittering Prospectuses.

When an individual or a corporation seeks to bribe a newspaper it is safe to assume that there is something wrong about the individual or the corporation. At least there is something to be concealed. Business men who are on the right path will not fear the light of publicity. The impudent offer of the "Psople's New England Investment Company" to purchase the news col-umns of the Herald to advertise the company's scheme in the company's own way is what other "bond" companies would like to do. Those "others," however, are more wide awake than the promoters of the Boston scheme. They read as they run and know the HERALD cannot be approached in that way.

The secretary's letter published in yesterday's issue justifies the Henald's first characterization of the so-called "People's" New England Investment Company as "one of the most brazen of these bond lottery schemes," Their circular, marked "Confidential to agents," was alone sufficient to arouse suspicion. If their glib tongued agents who are paid with such significant generosity, out of the contributions of the subscribers of course, could sell those "hundred thousand bonds" "as soon as possible," say even in three years, the "expense" fund would foot up $325,000-over $100,000 a year. No wonder the promoters are in a hurry, and no wonder they already consider themselves able to make a liberal offer to the Herald.

EVADING THE REAL ISSUE. The figures which the HERALD gave to the public, based on the company's own presentation of the plan, proved mathematically that the "investment" company must collanse when a certain amount was paid to those holding the lowest numbered

The same process was applied to Mr. Durland's "Mutual Savings and Distribution Fund Association" at No. 177 Broadway, but he got exceedingly augry and abused the HERALD.

The secretary of the "Security Investment and Loan Association," with headquarters in convenient Boston, also writes to the HERALD for a vindication. The communication, although a long one, does not meet the real point at issue-how any person or company can return $100 at the end of six months for $12 (the instalment being $2 a month) or $200 in two years for $48 paid in.

The secretary says:—

The neutron says:

In promitime, less the commission to the agent and twenty-five per cent of the monthly instainents, go to the association, and from them all the expenses of conducting the business must be not. Right here it may be said the expense of maintaining the various offices is much larger than the Himan leads its readers to assume and must be paid from the promitim and per cent of the installments.

much larger than the Himaid leads its readers to assume and must be paid from the premium and per cent of the instalments.

The Himaid accepts the correction and asks why should there be so much expense to the wage carner who is specially solicited to join? Why should one-fourth of his contributions, after paying $5 initiation fee, go to the "expense" fund? Will this association deuy, can any one of these associations douy, that there affairs are started solely to provide soft places, an easy means of livelihood for the promoteis and their friends and acquaintances?

The secretary also says:—"The opponents of the system allege that this is unjust, that it is robbing. Peter to pay Paul," that "the profits of the bond-holders arise from the losses of others, and is unchristian," and then he takes up the old lite insurance companies and shows that they "rob Peter to pay Paul." Supposing they do. That is wrong, but two wrongs do not make a right, for Bostonian's logic is just as fallacious as are his figures in his prespectus.

A FLAIN CONTRADICTION.

The company commits itself to a contradiction:—"This association," says the secretary in his letter to the Himatol, "loans its reserve fund with bond-holders at rates of interest that will return a profit. This in turn is deposited again in the reserve fund, and in this way that fund is increased, thus insuring the liability of the association to its bondholders."

Right in front of me is their circular, containing this plain statement:—"This reserve fund can be used only for the payment of bonds (and for no other purpose) whenever the Board of Directors deem it to the best incerest of the bendholders."

Now Mr. Becretary, which is it your company ther purpose) whenever the Board of Directors deem it to the best interest of the bendholders."

Now, Mr. Becretary, which is it your company proposes to do? You cannot keep your reserve fund intact and at the same time risk it in loans. The interest on $12 for six months at six per cent is only thirty-six cents. Will you please tell your "bondholders" how you can make $35 on that $12 investment in six months?

Among other letters received by the Herald last week was the following from a Brooklyn merchant:

Dear Sin—Enclosed find a circular which was left at my house in Brooklyn a few days ago. It is from the "Triernial Bensilt League," another of those organizations intended to eatch the unwary and which have been so well expessed in your valuable paper. The circular will speak for itself, and I trous you may devote a little space in your columns to the workings of the above association and show the publichow impossible it is for this league to pay a $40.0 certificate in three years for an outly of $50, in the same time, bestien paying $15, when a member is sick. Yours respectfully.

A READER. Here is another communication from a New York business man:—

If you would I should be thankful, not only for my own, but others' benefit.

you would I should be thankful not only for my own, but achier's benefit.

This society is very like that of the "Order of Financial Union," exposed in the HERALD in March, 1889, and which eventually got into the hands of the officers of the law. The Triennian's circular says the League was incorporated July 8, 1890, in Brooklyn, "by men of high standing in the community in which they reside." I suppose the "men of high standing" are Arthur W. Byrt, "Supreme President;" Albert H. Marquis, "Supreme Secretary." J. M. Barto, E. L. Vose, W. A. Ludden and E. V. R. Gardner, "Supreme Organizers."

The initiation fee was first $4 and it is now doubled. You pay $1 for a doctor's certificate and $1 for a member's certificate, total $10. The assessment for a $100 certificate is $2 50, for a $200 certificate $1 25. The promoters have a catechism, of which this is a part:—

Q. How do I know that the assessments will not be of which this is a part:—

Q. How do I know that the assessments will not be more than one a month? A. The supreme Council have siroacy decided to have but one per month for the first year, and the Executive Committee have agreed that for the first two years the assessments shall not exceed one or month and that there shall not be more than exteen assessments the third year.

Q. Will you tell me again where you get so large profit as to be able at the end of three years to pay me $400, whereby, according to your own statements, I shall that have paid your order only $100? A. First, by investing our fund in good paying securities; second, by the rapid growth of the order; third, by lapses.

In three years, a manufact will have years to you the rapid growth of the order; third, by lapses.

In three years a member will have paid in $100 and is then entitled to receive $400. The remarks above about the Security Lean and investment Company touching interest and the accumulation of the redemption fund are equally applicable in this case. The promoters promise too much, and if they will but carry out their figures to the end they will see themselves that they carnot carry out their promises.

TO BUILD A CAPUCHIN MONASTERY.

Colonel Frederick Shonnard, of Yonkers, has sold to the Order of Capuchins, of New York city. six acres of ground situated south of Shonnard place and east of North Broadway, in Yonkers. No price is given of the purchase.

It is the intention or the order to erect a church, parochial school and novitiate upon this property, to cost $60,000.

ALUMNI TO VOIE.

The annual meeting of the Atumni Association of the College of St. Francis Xavier will be held at Delmonico's, Fifth avenue and Twenty-sixth street, to-morrow evening, when the election of officers for the ensuing yearfwill be held.

The election promises to be a purely formal affair, as there is only one ticket in the field, as follows:—
For President, Peter Condon, '68; for First Vice President, Rev. W. J. E. Daly, '81; for Second Vice | President, Edward J. McGuire, '80; for Treasurer, Edward B. Amend, '77; for Secretary, John T. Fen-lon, '81; for Historian, Thomas F. Meehan, '73.

TO AID ITALIAN IMMIGRANTS.

A HOSPITAL EMPLOYMENT BUREAU AND SCHOOL FORMALLY OPENED IN THE CITY. The Instituto Italiano, the recently instituted Italian benevolent institution, were installed in their new building at No. 179 Second avenue Satur-The building is a four story brick structure fitted up as a hospital and a temporary home, with an employment bureau for Italian immigrants. The children of Italian parents will be fitted at the Institute for admittance into the public schools of
